EASY ACCESS EXTERNAL HOUSINGS

Conforming to an impressive IP65 rating, each unit in the VFTH range is pre-treated with an extremely durable marine weatherproof epoxy coating. As a result you can rest assured that the housing and its valuable contents will remain protected - even in the most hostile of environmental conditions. The same protective coating will also prevent UV radiation damage to your surveillance equipment.

However, despite its extremely tough exterior the VFTH range has been thoughtfully designed to maximise ease of installation and subsequent servicing. With a flip top housing and side opening, they offer easy camera set-up and maintenance for today's professional security installer.

Though these housing units can be used in fixed positions, they were specifically designed for mounting on to pan and tilt heads. All units come with an integral heater and thermostat to monitor changes in weather conditions, and also have a wash wiper system available to ensure external conditions do not impair surveillance activity.
